You may recognize some of the names as MCN employees; however, all work done by them in this capacity is done under private contract. MCN cannot be held responsible for issues raised by their work in this capacity and we respectfully ask that you not contact them during their work hours at MCN to discuss the design of your web pages or similar matters more appropriately handled by your private relationship with this person. Doing so may risk the job of the person in question.

We encourage you to shop and compare price and service by contacting the designers and previewing their sites.
